Call Calgary the big smoke

► Haze hanging over city from B.C. fires ► Air quality rated as 'fair,' the second highest on a four-level scale ► Edmonton has it a lot worse, according to officials

► The SAIT Trojans women's soccer team had their practice cut short Thursday due to the air in the city.

Calgary's medical officer is warning people with respiratory problems to be cautious as smoke from British Columbia forest fires hangs over the city.

Prevailing winds are blowing the smoke into much of Alberta and other weather conditions are keeping it close to the ground, turning normally blue skies a dusky grey. "For healthy people it's just annoying, it's not a health concern," said Richard Musko, Calgary's medical officer from Alberta Health Services. "But for people with chronic lung conditions, this may worsen their symptoms."

He said any damage or irritations would be only temporary, so unless people experience major difficulty breathing they should go about their day as usual. "Almost every summer this happens" he said.

Officers to lend a hand in Sudan

To honour their commitment to international peace operations, the Calgary Police Service is sending two officers to Sudan to help train police.

Sgt. Clare Smart and Sgt. Jim Shaw were chosen through a rigorous selection process to be the first officers to take part in the service's International Peace Operations Program.

"We're very proud that the Calgary Police Service is now committed to what we believe is a moral obligation to assist countries in developing their own policing strategies and their own policing skills," said police Chief Rick Hanson.

The mission comes just months after the CPS signed an agreement with the RCMP in February to participate in peacekeeping operations.

For Smart, being chosen for the program will fulfill a life-long dream.

"This is something that I've always wanted to do as a police officer, and ... for Sgt. Shaw and I to be the first people to go over to Sudan ... is an honour," she said.

The two officers will be leaving for Ottawa on Sept. 8, where they will train for 10 days before heading to the Sudan.

Calgary police are still looking for one man after a major drug bust last Thursday where they seized drugs, equipment, cash and various weapons.

There were eight arrests following a tip from the public, with raids on two houses and a restaurant, Subs 'n' More, at 311-1 Ave. SW.

"It's a significant bust for sure," said acting Staff Sgt. Russ Williamson. "Kudos to the public for the tip."

Police seized the drugs, currency, a canister of bear spray, numerous Samurai swords and knives, a box of handgun ammunition, a cocaine-production lab, digital scales and packaging material, mostly from Subs 'n' More.

Police are still looking

Haul

Police seized the following from three locations along with weapons and equipment:

- ▶ 539.9 grams of powder cocaine ($53,990 worth)
- ▶ 324.6 grams of crack cocaine ($32,460 worth)
- ▶ 148.6 grams of marijuana ($468 worth)
- ▶ 4 grams of temazepam ($200 worth)
- ▶ $81,750 Cdn and $2,467 US.

Zoo tiger treated for infection

Zookeepers are "cautiously optimistic" about the recovery of Kita, the Calgary Zoo's senior female tiger.

On Wednesday, drained fluids from Kita's chest cavity revealed a very serious infection requiring immediate and aggressive treatment.

"The infection looks bacterial in nature, which means there could be a whole host of causes," said senior veterinarian Dr. Doug Whiteside, adding that Kita has suffered from peripheral nervous system problems over the last five years.

"At 15, she has already exceeded the lifespan of the wild, where 12 years is expected. She doesn't have the immune system of a younger tiger."

Currently, Kita is back in her tiger enclosure being treated with antibiotics and her favourite snacks.

3 charged after RCMP rollover

CRIME. A man and two youths are in custody and facing charges in an incident that left a Banff RCMP officer in hospital.

On Tuesday, the officer was injured in a rollover while trying to pull over a stolen vehicle.

Jerrald Cameron Mountain of Red Deer is charged. The three accused were hitchhikers, officials say.

BRETTE EHALT/FOR METRO CALGARY

► There are many flight attendant horror stories at the Calgary International Airport.

'Passengers can be very rude'

Flight attendant shares tales of workplace frustrations

Leah Fearon's never jumped out on the tarmac à la Steven Slater — the U.S. flight attendant who used an emergency slide to escape annoying passengers last week — but she has felt the frustrations that come with flying.

"Passengers can be very, very rude," said Fearon, a Calgary-based flight attendant of 12 years. "They say the space is too small, that they've been flying too long, that they'll never take my airline again."

She's been sworn at more than once and has had to breathe in more than her share of recycled bad gas. She's also dealt with craziness.

Two months ago, a female passenger on Fearon's Vancouver-to-Calgary flight yelled, "The world is going to end!" throughout the flight.

"The fourth time, she took off her seat belt and barrelled to the front of the plane. A flight attendant and a passenger had to hold her down," said Fearon.

After a really long shift, Fearon said she becomes a "slam-clicker" — she immediately goes to her hotel, shuts the door and locks it, and then she pours herself a really hot bath.

WITH ANALYSIS OF CIVIC ISSUES
LEADING UP TO THE ELECTION

BROADEN YOUR VOTING HORIZONS

My weekly column is aimed at giving you more of the story-behind-the-story around the issues and the candidates. I hope you'll read this section each Friday as I try to break down more barriers to voter participation.

Goal: Engage Calgary voters.

Are you sick of hearing about Ric McIver and Barb Higgins yet? This week, I did a few media interviews on the candidates' use of social media.

Following one interview, the cameraman wanted to get images of the different websites they were using. I started by showing him some of the sites that I thought were done well. He then asked to see more from McIver and Higgins.

I took him to McIver's Flickr page. It hadn't been updated in over a year. I took him to Higgins's Twitter feed. Not one conversation. These were bad examples, but it's what he wanted footage of.

I was disappointed he didn't want to see more from those who were doing it well. Instead he and I had fallen into the two-candidate trap.

So far there are 13 candidates running for mayor, and another 56 running for alderman.

It's hard to get to know that many people well enough to be able to decide who you trust the most to ensure you have the services from the city you want, at a price you can afford.

And so the two-candidate trap was created.

It's much easier to only focus on two options. This or that. The American system has been perfected in this manner. Republican or Democrat, those are your only real options.

The problem is, the two-candidate trap is a self-fulfilling prophecy. Once the two main options are selected, all others suffer.

But why were McIver and Higgins the two selected to be talked about? The answer is simple: name recognition.

Admit it, when Barb Higgins entered the race you immediately said to yourself, "I know who she is. I think she'd be a lovely/terrible mayor."

Did you have the same thought when Wayne Stewart entered the race? I'm guessing no, simply because you didn't know who he was.

But this is not high school. We shouldn't be selecting our leadership based on popularity. Calgarians are smart enough to pick a council based on their ideas for Calgary.

I challenge you, the next time a conversation about the election pops up at the office or the dining room table, to not just talk about the candidates you already know, but to chat about Craig Burrows or Kent Hehr or Naheed Nenshi or Bob Hawkesworth. What makes them better (or worse) than the big two?

Yes, you're going to have to go learn something about them first.

I also challenge the media to give us the chance to learn about those candidates by not taking the lazy way out and falling into the two-candidate trap.

We're adults. We can handle more than two options.

HOME INVASION

Suspects used fake ID: Police

Police are investigating a suspected targeted home invasion by culprits posing as government officials.

On Thursday morning, two people approached a home in the 200 block of Coral Shores Landing NE and produced some type of government identification along with a law enforcement type badge.

They demanded entry and looked for hidden money, police say.

Duty Insp. Paul Stacey says Calgarians should be wary of people claiming to be officials, and can call police if they're suspicious.

Nobody was hurt in the robbery and the victims managed to free themselves and call police, he added.

Police are currently searching for two male suspects in the case.

SCIENCE

Oh, no ...
Moon is

The moon is shrinking, but it won't be disappearing any time soon.

New research is showing cracks in the moon's crust that have formed as the interior has cooled and shrunk over the last billion years or so.

That means the surface has shrunk, too, scientists say.

"The faults are so young-looking that you can't escape the possibility that this contraction occurred recently, and could indicate that the moon is still active," said Thomas Watters of the Smithsonian.

A bull leapt into the packed grandstands of a Spanish bullring and ran amok, injuring 40 people as it charged and trampled spectators, regional officials said Thursday.

Video showed the bull jumping several metres high out of the ring, clearing two barriers before landing in the stands and raising a panic as it lurched through the screaming crowd.

The incident occurred Wednesday during an event attended by about 3,500 spectators, in which mostly young people try to get a bull to charge at them so they can dodge it.

The 500-kilogram animal was brought under control by experienced bull handlers after several minutes at the arena in Tafalla in the northern region of Navarra and killed.

Gulf oil getting misty

Underwater oil was measured close to BP's blown-out well off the coast of Louisiana

A 22-mile-long (35-kilometre) invisible mist of oil is meandering far below the surface of the Gulf of Mexico, where it will probably loiter for months or more, U.S. scientists reported Thursday in the first conclusive evidence of an underwater plume from the BP spill.

The most worrisome part is the slow pace at which the oil is breaking down in the cold, 40-degree (4.5 C) water, making it a long-lasting but unseen threat to vulnerable marine life, experts said.

Earlier this month, top federal officials declared the oil in the spill was mostly "gone," and it is gone in the sense you cannot see it. But the chemical ingredients of the oil persist more than a half-mile

Leak

About 7 per cent of the oil from the leaked well went into this particular plume, said Samantha Joye of the University of Georgia.

(800 metres) beneath the surface, researchers found.

And the oil is degrading at one-tenth the pace at which it breaks down at the surface. That means "the plumes could stick

Family still sees hope in cold case

► Police still investigating many unsolved murders in the Halifax area
 ► Jason MacRae charged on Wednesday in wife Paula Gallant's death

@METRONEWS.CA

As proven this week, cold cases can be solved.

An arrest four-and-a-half years after the murder of Paula Gallant, a school teacher from Halifax, gives hope to families waiting for closure of their own.

Al and Carolyn MacCullough's son Jason was 19 when he was shot in the back of the head from point-blank range. He was walking home, using a well-known short cut on Pinecrest Drive in Dartmouth, N.S., at 2:30 a.m. on Aug. 28, 1999.

"It's good to see that the cold case squad has solved a case," Al said Thursday.

The number of unsolved homicides in the Halifax Regional Municipality since 1955. For a complete list go to www.halifax.ca/Police.

Carolyn added that news gave them "a little boost" to know there was an arrest in one of these cases.

"It gives us hope that they're not ignoring them," she said. "We are still behind the cops and we know they're doing what they can, we just wish they'd work a little faster."

In a press conference this week, Halifax Regional Police Chief Frank Beazley said the community and Gallant's family played a significant role in keeping the case in the public eye and encouraging people to provide information.

The Gallants are not alone in this effort: Every year the McCulloughs participate in a march against violence in Dartmouth.

The families of Jonathan Reader, who was murdered in 2005 in Clayton Park, N.S., and Tanya Brooks, who was killed in 2009 in Halifax, are others who host similar events.

Carolyn said they're not going anywhere and are going to stick to it until the end.

Cold case unit

- A case is moved to the cold case unit when every investigative avenue is exhausted, said Halifax Regional Police spokesman Const. Brian Palmeter.
- "But at any time when a piece of information is received, that information is acted on and it can change the status of a file," he said.
- Homicide files aren't closed unless a charge is laid.
- "We're always encouraging people to come forward because it may be that one piece of information we need to actively start investigating again and perhaps the piece we need to make an arrest."

Bar-hop – on Facebook

► Canada cites privacy issues over new device

The launch of Facebook Places in the U.S. on Thursday turned heads in Canada.

The service will allow Facebook users who are happy to post pictures and declare what they are doing to use their mobile phone to "check in" at their bar, park, shop or any place they like.

Fans of these location-based social-networking tools love the fact that they can tell their friends where they are at any given moment.

But there are privacy concerns.

"We haven't had an opportunity to fully examine the new tool. However, this is something we are monitoring very closely and with great interest, given the obvious privacy issues," said Anne-Marie Hayden, spokesperson for the Office of the Privacy Commissioner of Canada.

The commissioner's office held a series of consultations on online tracking last year, and plans to publish a report in the fall.

A Facebook spokesperson said the new service comes with easy-to-follow control settings to opt out.

Facebook's 500 million members access the network from mobile devices.

Though they are still new, location services present "endless possibilities" to businesses, eMarketer analyst Debra Aho Williamson said.

Seal victory for Inuit

Canada's largest Inuit organization has won a court application to suspend implementation of a European Union ban on imported seal products.

It's a setback for animal welfare activists who say the ban is needed to stop an inhumane slaughter.

The unexpected ruling came a day before the ban was to take effect.

The Inuit Tapiriit Kanatami learned Thursday the European Court of Justice imposed a delay because more time to consider the case.

► A U.S. soldier gives a thumbs-up to the last Stryker armored vehicle to leave Iraq, as it crosses the border into Kuwait, Thursday.

Last U.S. combat brigade exits Iraq by deadline

► Troops left the Baghdad area in separate convoys over a four-day period ► Largest threat was roadside bombs

A line of heavily armoured American military vehicles, their headlights twinkling in the pre-dawn desert, lumbered past the barbed wire and metal gates marking the border between Iraq and Kuwait early Thursday and rolled into history.

For the troops of the 4th Stryker Brigade, 2nd Infantry Division, it was a moment of relief fraught with symbolism, but lightened by the whoops and cheers of soldiers one step closer to going home. Seven years and five months after the U.S.-led invasion,

The U.S. death toll according to the Pentagon is 4,415, but that may not be final as 52,600 troops were left behind, said Lt. Gen. Robert Cone.

the last American combat brigade was leaving Iraq, ahead of President Barack Obama's Aug. 31 deadline.

When 18-year-old Spc. Luke Dill first rolled into Iraq as part of the U.S. invasion, his Humvee was so vulnerable to bombs that the troops lined its floor with flak jackets.

Now 25 and a staff sergeant after two tours of duty, he rode out of Iraq this week in a Stryker, an eight-wheeled behemoth.

Waiting for him back in Olympia, Wash., is the Harley-Davidson he purchased from one of the motorcycle company's dealerships at U.S. bases in Iraq — a vivid illustration of how embedded the American presence has become since the invasion of March 20, 2003.

Will N.S. go in alone, online?

Nova Scotia's finance minister says his province can venture into online gambling without including Newfoundland and Labrador in any new Internet-based games.

It's not unprecedented for some of the four Atlantic provinces to drop out of games created by the Atlantic Lottery Corp., Graham Steele said Thursday. Newfoundland and Labrador Premier Danny Williams has already indicated he will oppose the introduction of online gambling in his province.

But, Steele said that doesn't pose a problem if Nova Scotia approves games such as online poker.

"The Atlantic Lottery Corporation is a venture of the four Atlantic provinces, but they don't need unanimity on any particular item to move forward," he said.

EXPLOITING

► Fears grow that Islamic extremists will recruit Pakistani flood victims ► 20 million people affected

Islamist terrorists may exploit the chaos and misery caused by the floods in Pakistan to gain new recruits, the country's president warned Thursday — remarks echoed by a leading U.S. senator who said America would stand by its vital wartime ally during the crisis.

The floods have affected 20 million people and about one-fifth of Pakistan's territory, straining its civilian government as it also struggles against al-Qaida and Taliban violence. Aid groups and the United Nations have complained that foreign donors have not been quick or generous enough given the scale of the disaster.

"All these catastrophes give strength to forces who do not want a state structure," President Asif Ali Zardari said during a press conference with John Kerry, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, after the two visited some of the country's hardest-hit areas and a relief camp.

"There is a possibility that the negative forces would exploit the situation," Zardari said. "Like they would take the babies who have been made orphans and take them to their camps and train them as the terrorists of tomorrow."

Zardari's government has been criticized for failing to respond quickly enough, and Islamist charities — at least one of which has alleged links to terrorism — have been active in the flood-hit areas.

More than three weeks after the floods first began, the U.S., Germany and Saudi Arabia all announced new pledges of aid, while Japan said it would send helicopters to help distribute food, water and medicine. The Asian Development Bank said it would redirect $2 billion of existing and planned loans for reconstruction.

"If we don't do it quick, if we don't do it well, what will the Pakistani people think?" asked Juan Miranda, the development bank's director general for Central and West Asia. "We have to put every road and every bridge back into the shape where they should be."

Latimer wins parole ruling

► Judge disagrees with parole board's limits on its own discretion
 ► Orders an expedited reassessment of parole application

Robert Latimer has won a partial victory in his bid for looser parole conditions.

The National Parole Board has been ordered to immediately revisit its decision denying an expansion of parole.

A Federal Court judge says the board failed to follow its own legally binding principles — most notably that the paramount consideration for a person's release be the protection of society.

Latimer was convicted of second-degree murder in the death of his severely disabled daughter, an act he described as a mercy killing.

The parole board ruled that it could only expand Latimer's day parole under "exceptional circumstances" and found that his case did not meet that threshold.

Latimer appealed, and Federal Court Judge Anne Mactavish ruled this month that the parole board's insistence on "exceptional circumstances" improperly fettered its own discretion in assessing parole conditions.

"In particular it is inconsistent with the principle that, in achieving the purpose of conditional release, parole boards are to make the least restrictive determination consistent with the protection of society," the judge wrote, citing the board's statutory principles.

Mactavish ordered the board to reassess Latimer's application without considering the "exceptional circumstances" caveat in the board's non-binding policy manual.

The judge noted Latimer is eligible for full day parole in December and so ordered the parole board to reassess his situation on an expedited basis so that "it may be of some practical benefit to him."

Latimer was sentenced to life imprisonment in 2001 and was granted par-

News in brief

Man detained for smuggling

LONDON. A former special forces soldier was jailed Thursday for attempting to sneak out of Britain with a stash of 14 rare peregrine falcon eggs hidden in socks strapped to his body.

Jeffrey Lendrum, 48, was trying to get to Dubai, where falconry is a national sport and such eggs can fetch $11,000 each on the black market. He was caught when a cleaner spotted him behaving suspiciously in a business class lounge at Birmingham International Airport on May 3.

Lendrum originally told police he was carrying store-bought chicken eggs, which he said he used to treat a bad back, but he pleaded guilty Thursday at Warwick Crown Court in western England, standing with his arms crossed and his head bowed for nearly the entire hearing.

Judge Christopher Hodson said Lendrum's crime hurt not only the local area "but in some measure to the planet and its future" and sentenced him to 30 months in jail.

Conspirators excluded from RCMP inquiry

STONY PLAIN, ALTA. Two men jailed for their roles in the deaths of four Mounties near Mayerthorpe, Alta., won't be allowed to take part in the fatality inquiry into the shootings, even though neither has ever testified in court about what they know concerning the buildup to the crime.

Judge Daniel Pahl ruled Thursday at a hearing to determine who will have standing at the inquiry that Shawn Hennessey and Dennis Cheeseman are unlikely to have anything useful to add.

Hennessey and Cheeseman pleaded guilty to manslaughter in the March 3, 2005 deaths of constables Peter Schiemann, Brock Myrol, Leo Johnston and Anthony Gordon.

In an agreed statement of facts, the two men said they had supplied the killer with one of his weapons and given him a ride to a spot where he could begin stalking the officers.

Older, wiser and ... lazier?

Oldest children are smarter than their youngest sibling, according to a recent study conducted by a psychology doctoral candidate at Adelphi University.

The study supports previous research that suggests eldest siblings have higher intelligence than their younger siblings.

It also found that younger siblings got better grades in school and worked harder. This, however, could be partially explained by the fact their elder siblings mentored them.

The question of which child in a family is smarter inflames the ire of any one who has a brother or sister.

Intel agrees to buy McAfee for $7.68B

► Future is in security, says chip-maker ► Deal positions Intel to expand in smartphone market

Intel Corp. said Thursday it is buying computer-security software maker McAfee Inc. for $7.68 billion US as the chip-maker adds to its arsenal of tools to serve an increasing array of Internet-connected devices, including mobile phones.

The $48-per-share price represents a 60 per cent premium over McAfee's Wednesday close of $29.93. McAfee shares surged 58 per cent after the deal was announced Thursday to hit $47.42 in premarket trading. Intel shares slipped 2.5 per cent to $19.11.

Economy slowing, but not stalled: Statscan

Canada's economy will continue to churn out growth, but the pace is set to slow further as the housing market cools and the U.S. economy falters, according to a Statistics Canada report released yesterday.

The Statistics Canada leading economic indicator index — a monthly gauge of where the economy appears headed in the coming months — slowed to a 0.4 per cent increase in July, after a gain of 0.7 per cent in June.

That's the smallest gain for the index recorded in more than a year.

A cooling housing market will slow Canada's economy going forward, but the figures still signal continuing growth.

Statistics Canada reports most of the slowdown originates in the household sector, where three components of the index fell. None of the seven other components decreased.

The housing index continued to retreat from its recent highs, declining 4.1 per cent as both housing starts and sales contributed to the decline.

The slump in house sales was reflected in a 0.6 per cent drop in furniture and appliance sales, while demand for other durable goods posted a fifth straight decline.

Meanwhile, the manufacturing sector continued to recover steadily as new orders for durable goods rose 2.2 per cent, their sixth straight advance.

A second report released by Statistics Canada yesterday found that wholesale sales declined 0.3 per cent.

5 MINUTES WITH: TRISTIN CHANEL

Calgarian Tristin Chanel is the lead singer of the new band Royal Syndicate, which debuted its sound Thursday at Calgary's ReggaeFest.

You just recently started a new band?

Yeah, right after my old band Five Star Affair had a reunion show and some people from the band that still live in Calgary — the ones that stayed here — were like "We need to start playing music together again," and I was like "OK!" and now the music is kind of rad.

How does the sound of your new band Royal Syndicate differ from Five Star Affair?

I was kind of worried that we would sound the exact same because I'm still the lead singer and people are always going to compare you to your old band. Andrew, our bass player, is actually the song-writer ... so he writes the songs and the melodies and then I'll do the lyrics sometimes.

You play lots of instruments as well as being a singer. How did you get involved in all of these different elements of music?

It's because I'm stubborn; because I really wanted to learn how to play the didgeridoo and the guitar and the drums and the keys, and everything that I want to do I always make sure that I do it. I guess I set myself up with a certain goal and if I don't get it right away, it's kind of frustrating, but I keep on doing it until I can get it. I just decide that I want to play a certain instrument and then I, all the sudden, dedicate my life to that until I move on to the next one.

What made you want to pick up the didgeridoo?

I saw Xavier Rudd play ... I saw him at Mount Royal College a long time ago and there was probably like five people at the bar ... So my friend said "You should learn how to play that."

I moved to Vancouver and I found a didgeridoo at the folk festival there and some guy was just selling bracelets off of it and he sold it to me for $25, and I bought my recent didgeridoo for $400 ... I learned on my own like on the Internet and stuff getting tips, I came up with my own style so I beatbox on it rather than Aboriginal drone.

► Phone sex, assumed infidelity — romantic comedy Going The Distance takes on highs and lows of long-distance relationships ► Director Nanette Burstein's background in documentary, Justin Long and Drew Barrymore's chemistry added to film's natural feel

Going The Distance and keeping it real

PHIL BROWN
SCENE@METRONEWS.CA

Next weekend Going The Distance — yet another star-studded romantic comedy — will be hitting screens headlined by Drew Barrymore and Justin Long.

However, the movie might catch some people off guard as it's a far more realistic representation of a relationship than audiences are used to from the genre.

"A lot of romantic comedies are fairy tales which are fun to watch, but I really wanted to make a film that was more grounded," director Nanette Burstein told Metro.

She's an interesting choice to infuse the rom-com with realism as well, given that Burstein's previous experience has been in documentaries including the Oscar-nominated On The Ropes and American Teen.

"Ever since film school I've wanted to make non-fiction and fiction movies," revealed the director. "I've been reading a lot of different scripts from the studios to direct and I really responded to this. I loved the tone, the honesty, the humour."

Going The Distance is about a seemingly ideal couple who live on opposite sides of America. Obviously that leads to misunderstandings and a variety of zany shenanigans involving phone sex and mistaken infidelity. But there's also a lot of anger, frustration, and emotion that grounds the film with some surprisingly harsh realities.

For Burstein, making the film as realistic as possible was of vital importance and it even led to shooting scenes with her two stars in New York unannounced and without a crew as if it were a documentary.

"We were so stealth and had such small cameras that people didn't even realize that Drew and Justin were there. Most people just walked by, which was exciting for the actors."

Burstein in her own words

On choosing real-life couple Drew Barrymore and Justin Long

"I deliberately chose a real couple because they had such a wonderful natural chemistry together and also because the movie has lots of comedy in it involving things like phone sex and sex on a dining room table. So it was great to have two actors who felt so comfortable with each other. That way they could just really go for it with the comedy."

On Justin Long's curious work habits

"Justin couldn't stop getting naked on set with Drew. He seemed to love it."

How documentaries prepared her for fiction

"There was actually a lot that I could draw upon, primarily from being able to draw a story out of life. As a fiction director, especially when you're helping develop the script or rewriting it on set, I think your sense of story is really important. Also knowing how to make people very comfortable on camera. Helping real people feel comfortable on camera isn't that different from helping actors feel very natural on camera."

In brief

Spike Lee returns to New Orleans

Five years after he documented the horrors of Hurricane Katrina, Spike Lee returned to New Orleans with his new movie showing the city's agonizing efforts to return to normal.

The premiere this week included hours one and four of the HBO documentary, If God Willing and Da Creek Don't Rise.

"The first hour was very, very emotional," said Sharon Starks, 53, who said she had a purse full of tissues after seeing the first Lee film on the hurricane. "But the second hour I was just angry. It was about the BP oil spill and I just felt they came along and violated us on top of everything else."

Lee also produced When the Levees Broke: A Requiem in Four Acts, after Katrina struck in August 2005. That movie detailed the overwhelming losses and the pain and suffering the hurricane and the breaching of the levees caused.

"I have mixed feelings," said Althea Pierce, 79, who lost everything in the Aug. 29, 2005 storm, but has since rebuilt her house. "It's very painful to relive the storm, but I'm hopeful because of the progress we're making."

In the new movie, Lee returns five years later to see how plans to rebuild New Orleans have played out.

The city has seen many areas rebuilt since the storm. There are still areas of New Orleans that remain deserted, but the population, 450,000 before the hurricane, has grown to 380,000.

It airs on HBO Aug. 23 and 24.

Frasier star connects with '60s in Flipped

► John Mahoney played Kelsey Grammer's dad in hit TV series ► Actor preferred intuition to research while developing character for film

NED EHRBAR
SCENE@METRONEWS.CA
METRO WORLD NEWS IN LOS ANGELES

Best known for his role as ornery Martin Crane on the long-running Frasier, John Mahoney has been a staple of film, TV and theatre — he got his start at Chicago's Steppenwolf Theatre — for decades.

And though he celebrated his 70th birthday in June, Mahoney is still at it, with roles on Burn Notice and In Treatment and as wisdom-dispensing grandfather Chet Duncan in Rob Reiner's new coming-of-age film, Flipped. Mahoney sat down with Metro to talk about how an actor prepares, balancing stage and screen work and the appeal of the early '60s.

How did you go about developing your character for Flipped?

I looked for what his flaws would've been, and I tried to layer in there that he liked to give a little advice — and we all do, no matter what generation it is. You know, 'When I was a kid, when I was this, when I was that. We never did that,' or 'We knew how to behave.' But I just tried to make him as human as I could by layering in real or imagined self-aggrandizing more than anything else.

But that was about it. I couldn't put in any deep, dark secret past in there because I just don't think there was one. I didn't want to manufacture anything.

How much work do you do figuring out a character's backstory?

You know, all actors work in different ways, and a lot of people do a lot of research. I don't, to tell you the truth. I read the script and I memorize the lines, and then I think a little bit about the character. But I like to act intuitively. I like to just see what happens. I like to see how a line is said to me before I determine how I'm going to reply to that line. So it's always new to me, whether it's stage or screen or television.

The book Flipped is based on isn't set in the 1960s, but the movie version is. Why do you think there's been so much fascination with that time period lately?

I don't know what it is. I think in the case of Flipped, the innocence of the period. It was just before so many cataclysmic things were happening — assassinations and invasions — I just think [director] Rob [Reiner] was looking for a beautiful time that he could explore innocence and decency before the world went crazy and before we became so technologically obsessed and everything else. I mean, it was such an innocent age when you look back on it.

Not much to turn on

The Switch

Genre: Comedy
Directors: Josh Gordon, Will Speck
Stars: Jennifer Aniston, Jason Bateman

Well, two months have gone by so it's time for another Jennifer Aniston date movie! As you'd expect from anything starring the haircut from Friends, it's pretty bland and inoffensive. Jen wants to have a baby, so she goes for artificial insemination. Jason Bateman plays her best friend and secret lover who switches in his semen after some booze. Years goes by and she returns with a kid who acts an awfully lot like the main character from Arrested Development. The movie plays out exactly as you'd expect. The only surprise is that Bateman makes his character work.

• STEVE GOW

Nanny McPhee Returns

Genre: Family
Director: Susanna White
Stars: Emma Thompson

Emma Thompson returns to her favourite snaggle-toothed character once again in Nanny McPhee Returns — a sequel of sorts to the Oscar-winning star's 2005 hit feature. In this version, the frighteningly unibrowed nanny with magical powers helps a family trying to keep their struggling farm out of deadbeat Uncle Phil's (Rhys Ifans, excellent as usual).

• STEVE GOW

Lottery Ticket

Genre: Comedy
Director: Erik White
Stars: Ice Cube, Bow Wow

You have to hand it to Lottery Ticket — the film at least has a fairly decent premise. Even if it is slightly familiar. Kevin (rapper turned actor Bow Wow) is an honest kid just trying to get by in a bad neighbourhood. But when Kevin suddenly wins millions in the Friday lottery, he must survive the weekend to cash in the lucky ticket. Enter the rest of the cookie-cutter caricatures including a shoe-obsessed bully, a charlatan preacher and the dubious neighbourhood kingpin. In fact, the only real people Kevin can seemingly trust are his best friend (Brandon T. Jackson) and a reclusive ex-fighter (Ice Cube). • STEVE GOW

Sounds Like a Revolution

Genre: Documentary
Director: James Michener

Sounds Like a Revolution, the new doc from Canadian filmmakers Summer Love and Jane Michener, argues that the post 9-11 world has produced more politically active artists than ever before, but the average person would never hear their music due to corporate and political interests trumping these artists right to speak their minds. But the film's biggest flaw is its singular focus on American bands. • IAN GORMELY

Salute to The Exorcist

SUBMITTED

► New Eli Roth film explores demonic possession ► 'What we've done here is make a great movie...'

Though he's known primarily as the gorehound enfant terrible behind the controversial Hostel films, filmmaker Eli Roth is not an easy artist to pigeonhole.

Outside of writing and directing both the grisly Hostel — and its even more gruesome sequel — Roth has worked as an actor for his friend and collaborator Quentin Tarantino in both Death Proof and Inglourious Basterds, and now, Roth steps back to quietly pull the producers strings in director Daniel Stamm's hotly anticipated thriller The Last Exorcism.

"I always wanted to make a movie about demonic possession and exorcism," says Roth, in Toronto recently to promote the film.

"The beauty of shooting in first person, fake documentary format is that you can strip away the make-up effects," the producer admits.

"It's effective and further blurs the line between the

MOVIE NANNIES: MARY POPPINS THEY ARE NOT

Few and far between are the lot to be 'perfect in every way'

The most famous movie nanny is, naturally, Mary Poppins. Julie Andrews brought the "practically perfect in every way" caregiver to vivid life in the 1964 movie, indelibly imprinting on minds young and old the image of the gracious English nanny with special powers.

ity to say the word "super-califragilisticexpialidocious" backwards and forwards, is a pop culture icon, parodied on everything from Buffy the Vampire Slayer to Saturday Night Live.

She's even inspired other movies, like this weekend's Nanny McPhee Returns. McPhee (Emma Thompson) fits the enchanted babysitter mold, using her miraculous powers to teach pigs to do synchronized swimming and impose her will on her young charges.

She means well even if her teeth are a bit scary and her methods unorthodox unlike some of the nightmare nannies listed below.

Crazysitters: Redubbed "Fetal Attraction" by one writer, the best known crazysitter movie is The Hand That Rocks the Cradle, a lurid story about a beautiful nanny with bad intentions. After that film Rebecca De Mornay became the poster girl for nutty nannies everywhere, but she is just one of many who have played crazy caregivers. In Addams Family Values nanny Joan Cusack is more interested in Uncle Fester's money than the welfare of the kids and I think the name of the Beverly D'Angelo movie Crazysitter speaks for itself.

"I am here to protect thee": Like Mary Poppins and Nanny McPhee, who both mysteriously appeared when their families needed them most, The Omen's Mrs. Blaylock turned up at Damien Thorn's house just in time to replace the former nanny who met an untimely demise at the end of a rope. Like her colleagues this mother's little helper had the child's best interest in mind. Unlike Poppins and McPhee, she was a disciple of the Devil sworn to protect Damien until he can take over the world.

Rock 'Em Sock 'Em Nannies: Heading the list of muscle-head nannies is wrestler Hulk Hogan who donned a pink tutu to play the lead in Mr. Nanny, a 1993 comedy co-starring Sherman Hemsley and former New York Dolls singer David Johansen.

A close second is Vin Diesel, the big bad bald guy best known as car thief Dominic in the Fast and Furious movies.

In The Pacifier he's an ex-Navy Seal on his toughest mission yet—looking after a gaggle of five kids.

Trace Adkins has new ticket to ride

► Country singer signs with Toby Keith's label ► releases energetic album

Trace Adkins was pondering a move to good friend Toby Keith's record label when Adkins heard the words every singer wants to hear:

"Adkins offered to would fly to Keith's house in Oklahoma to play him what was to become Cowboy's Back In Town, when Keith told him, 'I don't need to hear what you do.'

"Right there he basically said, 'I know who you are. I know what you do. You don't need to change anything for me,'" Adkins recalled.

Adkins signed on as Show Dog-Universal Music's first new recruit and eight months later, the big man's latest album is the label's first major release. Cowboy's Back in Town, released this week, is a mostly lighthearted romp that includes just one ballad. The man with one of country's most distinctive voices said he was aiming for the same kind of energy generated by his live show.

In a way, the album represents Adkins' response to the new digital era when record sales are more a means to an end than the ultimate goal. Few artists can expect to sell millions of records these days, so Adkins said his goal with the new set was to draw fans to his live shows.

On this, Adkins and Keith are in lockstep. That made it easier for the 48-year-old Adkins to leave the safe haven of Capitol Nashville, the label he had been with since he cut his first album in 1996.

"I think the thing that makes it most comfortable for me is the fact that Toby doesn't look at the record label as a revenue generator," Adkins said. "He looks at the label as a marketing-advertising tool that we need to get our music out there so we

Sound Check

ALAN CROSS

SCENE@METRONEWS.CA

Steven Adler, the original drummer for Guns N' Roses, has a pretty solid handshake for The Most Self-Destructive Guy in Rock.

One stroke, two heart attacks, three botched suicide attempts, several trips to jail and twenty-eight overdoses on everything from heroin on down.

He was so messed up that even by the standards of the depravity set by Guns N' Roses in their heyday, he was too much for the rest of the band. He was fired for drinking too much and taking too many drugs. Even Slash, a guy he had known since childhood (and a fellow junkie), refused to stand by him anymore. From there, his life became worse than you can imagine. For 20 years.

So what do you do if you survive all this? You write a book, of course.

"There's been a lot of stuff said and I want to set the record straight," he says, speaking with a slight slur in his voice, perhaps resulting from the stroke, "but for me, it's very mentally and physically and spiritually healing for me. I couldn't continue with my life. I couldn't move on. I couldn't move ahead with my career, my family, if I didn't say these things. I wear my heart on my sleeve with this book."

He does. My Appetite for Destruction is brutally honest. Adler recounts everything from the sexual abuse he suffered as a child through to all the weirdness and sickness that was part of everyday life as a member of GNR. It also covers all kinds of Gunners' history that even some of the most hardcore fans may not know about.

It was only after he finally got sick of "coming to every morning and then doing drugs," he sought the help of Dr. Drew Pinsky (the Celebrity Rehab guy) that he was able to reverse this death spiral.

"You think everything's party. It wasn't such a party. Being sick, having to go on stage throwing up blood, hospitals — that's what happened."

"I partied harder than any of them and it affected me differently. (Then) for twenty years I was blaming Slash, Axl, Duff and Izzy for letting me down. I let me down."

Shepherd does double duty on daytime TV

► The actress-comedian signs on to host The Newlywed Game, while keeping her View

► She'll also continue to play her recurring role on NBC's 30 Rock

Sherri Shepherd is going to be on view even more starting this fall.

Shepherd, co-host of the daytime talk show The View, will join The Newlywed Game as host when it begins its fourth season on the GSN channel in November.

"Who does not love The Newlywed Game?" Shepherd said Wednesday.

"I've been a fan since I was young, when my grandma would have soap operas on one TV and Newlywed Game on another."

The GSN show, which was hosted by Carnie Wilson, will tape 65 episodes with Shepherd beginning in September.

The season starts Nov. 1, with the show airing 6 p.m. EST Monday through Friday.

Production on The Newlywed Game is moving from Los Angeles to New York, where Shepherd tapes ABC's The View.

She said she doesn't foresee any problem balancing work on the two daily shows and sees The Newlywed Game as providing a welcome change.

"I get to have fun. I'm not going to be arguing with anybody about whether we should pull the troops out of Afghanistan," Shepherd said.

The actress-comedian is also completing work on One for the Money, a film starring Katherine Heigl and based on the Janet Evanovich novel, and will be back on NBC's 30 Rock in the recurring role of feisty Angie Jordan, wife of TV star Tracy Jordan (Tracy Morgan).

"I love to work. If I'm not working, I'm going to get pregnant," joked Shepherd, who has a 5-year-old son.

The Newlywed Game, based on the game show that debuted in the 1960s with host Bob Eubanks, gives three couples the chance to win prizes by showing how much each knows about their new spouse.

Shepherd's advice for the contestants?

"I'm gonna tell the women you better make those men feel like they're on top of the world" whether they have the right answers or not, she said. "Otherwise, you're gonna be dealing with a pouting man."

A celebrity edition of the show last season featured its first gay couple when George Takei, who played Mr. Sulu on Star Trek, appeared with his partner, Brad Altman. The couple wed in California in 2008 when same-sex marriage, now back in the courts, was legal.

BAM! It's Lagasse's flavourful burger

Method

create a burger that lives up to the catchphrase "Bam!"

And Emeril Lagasse has done just that, offering AP's 20 Burgers of Summer series a seriously over-the-top 250-gram (1/2-pound) burger of prime ground chuck topped with a round of fried fresh mozzarella cheese and drizzled with chipotle, tomato and lime aioli.

"I wanted a balance of texture and flavour in achieving one of the ultimate comfort foods," Lagasse said in an email interview. "I loved the idea of combining a rich fried cheese with prime chuck and the spicy aioli."

Chipotle, Tomato and Lime Aioli

Start to finish: 5 minutes In a blender, combine all ingredients and purée until smooth. Store in an airtight container and refrigerate for up to five days:

MAKES 125 ML (1/2 CUP).

Fried Mozzarella Rounds

Start to finish: 30 minutes (10 minutes active)

In a wide, shallow bowl, place flour. In a second wide, shallow bowl, whisk together eggs and milk. Place panko in a third wide, shallow bowl.

One at a time, dredge each slice of cheese through flour, shaking off excess, then dip into egg mixture, coating thoroughly. Place slices in panko and coat evenly on both sides. Pass each slice through egg mixture a second time, then again through panko.

Line a sheet pan with parchment paper. Arrange cheese slices on it, then place in the freezer for 20 minutes.

In a medium sauté pan over medium-high, heat oil. Add breaded cheese slices, in batches if necessary, and fry each for about 2 1/2 minutes on the first side, then 1 1/2 minutes on the second side. Move cheese slices to a paper towel-lined plate to drain. MAKES 4 SLICES.

Bam Burger With Chipotle, Tomato and Lime Aioli

In a large bowl, season meat with salt and pepper. Gently form into four 250-g (8-oz) patties, being careful not to overwork meat. Cover patties and refrigerate until chilled, about 1 hour.

Heat a grill to medium. Lightly oil grates.

Grill patties for 8 minutes, then flip them and grill for another 7 to 8 minutes for medium-rare to medium or until burgers are cooked to desired doneness.

Place a burger on the bottom of each of the four toasted buns, place a tomato slice on top of the burger, then a slice of fried mozzarella and 50 ml (1/4 cup) of the arugula. Dress the top bun with 15 ml (1 tbsp) of the aioli and place the bun on top.

NHL camp wraps up with intrigue

BRUCE BENNETT/GETTY IMAGES

► Brendan Shanahan

Brendan Shanahan's goal with the NHL's research, development and orientation camp was to take a proactive approach to considering potential changes that could improve the game.

The league tested several modifications to its rules — some slight tinkering and some out of left field — during the two-day camp which wrapped up Thursday. The exercise gave league officials, team executives and players a chance to see various ideas in action during live scrimmages. Shanahan, the NHL's vice-president of hockey and business affairs, thinks it was an important first step.

"I don't really feel like there's a finish line with this project," Shanahan said. "I think it's just a matter of collecting information that could come in handy tomorrow, or it could come in handy five or 10 years from now."

Long process

- Fans shouldn't expect to see changes to the game any time soon.
- The next scheduled GMs meeting is in November and the competition committee and board of governors would need to approve any potential proposals.

On Thursday, no-touch icing was in effect, teams switched ends for overtime (creating a so-called 'long change' with the bench being farther away) and there was a five-man shootout instead of the usual three.

One change that generated some buzz was the use of an off-ice referee positioned on an elevated platform beside the boards. The goal was to create more room on the ice and provide a better vantage point to spot infractions.

Latest in steroid saga sees former Blue Jay indicted by grand jury

Seven-time Cy Young Award winner Roger Clemens was indicted by a federal grand jury Thursday for allegedly lying to Congress about using steroids and growth hormone.

The criminal case writes a new chapter in one of Major League Baseball's worst scandals, the rampant use of the banned substances.

A six-count indictment alleges that Clemens obstructed a congressional inquiry with 15 different statements that he made under oath in 2008, including denials that he had ever used steroids or human growth hormone. The indictment says that he lied and committed perjury regarding the same matters.

The former pitcher and his former trainer, Brian McNamee, testified under oath at a 2008 hearing before a House committee and contradicted each other about whether Clemens had used performance-enhancing drugs.

McNamee has told federal agents, baseball investigator George Mitchell and the committee that he injected Clemens more than a dozen times with steroids and human growth hormone from 1998 to 2001.

Clemens has maintained that McNamee was lying and said so under oath before the committee.

Alberta battle results in CFL fines

The Canadian Football League is issuing fines to three players from the Calgary Stampeders and two more on the Edmonton Eskimos for their role in an altercation last weekend.

The league began looking into the play Monday and disciplined defensive lineman Mike Labino, cornerback Brandon Browner and receiver Romby Bryant of the Stamps, and receivers

Calvillo hurt

► Montreal Alouettes quarterback Anthony Calvillo was carted off the field at Percival Molson Stadium on Thursday night after taking a hit from Winnipeg Blue Bombers defensive end Odell Willis.

Tremayne Kirkland and Andre Talbot of the Eskimos on Thursday.

Calgary's 56-15 victory turned ugly in the fourth quarter as players from both sides became involved in an incident on the Stampeders side of the field.

Kirkland was downed after making a catch when Labino and Talbot went over him.

A melee ensued when Kirkland got up and started swinging.

Sports in brief

Harvin taken to hospital

NFL. Minnesota Vikings wide receiver Percy Harvin was taken to a hospital by ambulance after collapsing at Thursday's practice, and coach Brad Childress said Harvin suffered another migraine headache attack.

Haynesworth out again

NFL. So now Albert Haynesworth has a headache.

The story keeps changing, but one thing remains the same about the Washington Redskins defensive tackle: He still isn't practising.

Haynesworth was idle again Thursday, standing to the side for the final workout of training camp.

Aries March 21-April 20 Your head is telling you one thing and your heart is telling you another and you know there can only be one winner. With Mars, your ruler, close to love planet Venus today feelings will count more than thoughts.

Taurus April 21-May 21 No matter how much work you have on your plate you will get through it in record time today. Everything will go according to plan.

Gemini May 22-June 21 If you are looking for love you will find it over the next 24 hours. Someone who is your perfect match in every way will come into your life and before you know it you will be an item. A match made in Heaven!

Cancer June 22-July 22 The atmosphere on the home front will be excellent today, not least because you are full of life and laughter and love and your attitude rubs off on other people.

Leo July 23-Aug. 23 Forget about your worries. Forget about your chores. The only thing you should be thinking about today is having fun. Make the most of the Sun in your sign to shine brighter than ever before — and that's pretty bright.

Virgo Aug. 24-Sept. 22 There may be unexpected bills to pay over the next 24 hours but don't let it worry you because you'll find the cash somewhere.

Libra Sept. 23-Oct. 23 Venus, your ruler, allied to Mars in your sign endows you with the kind of energy and spirit of enterprise that you wish you could hold on to every day of the year.

Scorpio Oct. 24-Nov. 22 Something good is about to come into your life, something that has the potential to make your existence more enjoyable and rewarding.

Sagittarius Nov. 23-Dec. 21 One of the best aspects of the year takes place today in the area of your chart that governs friendships and group activities. Don't hide yourself away at home or in the office — get out into the world where you can be seen.

Capricorn Dec. 22-Jan. 20 You can persuade almost anyone to do almost anything for you today. No doubt that information will get your mind moving in all sorts of ways but it's in the work area that you will really shine.

Aquarius Jan. 21-Feb. 18 Venus and Mars in your fellow Air sign of Libra will bring you the good things in life. Don't feel in the least bit guilty about enjoying them.

Pisces Feb. 19-March 20 A secret crush won't be secret much longer as you are finding it increasingly difficult to keep your feelings to yourself. Why not come right out and tell that special someone how you feel? ■ SALLY BROMPTON
